About

Juan Manuel has over six years of professional experience advising clients in foreign trade projects, customs matters, and legal remedies. His work focuses on reviewing compliance with Mexican legislation and international trade agreements, designing and implementing business strategies, obtaining permits and authorizations before the Mexican authorities, as well as preventing and solving legal conflicts that companies could encounter.

Before joining the firm, Juan Manuel was part of the Federal Administrative Justice Court and other law firms, where he contributed to all types of projects regarding foreign trade and customs matters.
